Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- Global stocks posted double-digit gains for the period. The fund's benchmark index returned 23.79% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Results were positive in the benchmark's 11 sectors. Information technology, consumer discretionary and communication services stocks helped performance the most.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than two-thirds of the index, helped performance the most, followed by Japan.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high led central banks, including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, to continue raising interest rates in the first part of the year, but through less aggressive hikes than some of those in 2022. The Bank of Japan adjusted its yield curve control framework but maintained its negative interest rate policy through 2023.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- Global stocks posted a double-digit gains for the period.
- In this environment, Japanese equities ended the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 16.24% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Results were positive in nine of the index's 11 sectors. Industrials, information technology and consumer discretionary contributed the most. Health care and consumer staples were the sole detractors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks – including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England – raising interest rates in the first part of 2023 but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022. The Bank of Japan adjusted its yield curve control framework but maintained its negative interest rate policy through 2023.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- Global stocks posted a double-digit gains for the period.
- Pacific markets excluding Japan finished the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 2.84% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Results were positive in seven of the index's 11 sectors. Materials contributed most to returns. Real estate and financials detracted most.
- Australia, the largest market, added most to performance. Hong Kong eroded overall returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- Global stocks posted double-digit gains for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 16.16%. Ten of the 11 index sectors produced positive returns. Industrials, financials, consumer discretionary and technology contributed most. The lone detractor was consumer staples.
- Among markets, all but one were positive contributors. The largest contributors were France, the UK, Germany and Switzerland. Finland was the only detractor.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, many investors were concerned about inflation and the possibility that, in trying to rein it in, policymakers would spur a global recession.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but then price increases broadened to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of 2023, though less aggressively than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of the Fed cutting rates in 2024.
- Stocks ended the period up more than 22%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. All regions turned in strong results. The United States had an especially strong performance.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 25.67% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023. Seven of the index's 11 industry sectors recorded double-digit gains. Information technology, which accounted for more than 25% of the index, on average, during the year, contributed the most to its performance. Energy and utility companies' share prices generally declined slightly, posing modest drags.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, many investors were concerned about inflation and the possibility that, in trying to rein it in, policymakers would spur a global recession.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but then price increases broadened to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of 2023, though less aggressively than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of the Fed cutting rates in 2024.
- Stocks ended the period up more than 22%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. All regions turned in strong results. The United States had an especially strong performance.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 25.36% for the 12 months ended 31 December. Seven of the index's 11 industry sectors recorded double-digit gains. Information technology, which accounted for an average of 25% of the index during the year, contributed the most to the index's performance, returning 59%. Energy and utility companies' share prices generally declined slightly, posing modest drags.
- The fund slightly outpaced its benchmark. The fund's edge derived in part from having almost no exposure to the consumer staples sector, which underperformed. It also owed to strong security selection among industrial companies. A third significant source of strength was the size of the fund's stake in energy companies and its results. Weighing the most on the fund's relative performance were a small cash reserve and the size and performance of its information technology holdings.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA-.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks – including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England – raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 8.86% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- All countries in the index posted solid returns, led by Ireland and Austria with double-digit gains.
- Performance didn't differ much by maturity, but bonds rated AA returned more than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high led central banks, including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, to continue raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than some of those in 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- The fund performed better than its benchmark index, which returned 11.09% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Country selection and ratings positioning relative to the benchmark drove outperformance throughout the year. An overweight to El Salvador and underweights to Qatar and Bolivia were particularly helpful to relative performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency benchmark that includes investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- The fund's benchmark returned 9.11% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023. The fund modestly underperformed its benchmark largely due to swing pricing, an adjustment to the net asset value undertaken to protect existing investors from the costs incurred when other investors buy or sell units of the fund.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Japan, Canada and Australia were also among the laggards. Other index heavyweights including Germany, Spain, France and the United Kingdom posted double-digit gains.
- There was little difference in returns by sector.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, intermediate- and long-dated bonds outperformed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 7.09% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Every country represented in the index posted positive returns. Among those with the highest returns were Slovenia, Italy, Cyprus and Luxembourg.
- By maturity, longer- and intermediate-dated bonds performed best. From a credit-quality perspective, lower-rated bonds performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 7.38% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Each sector in the index posted positive returns. Corporates performed the best, with all represented sub-sectors – financial institutions, industrials and utilities – posting healthy gains. In non-corporates, sovereigns performed particularly well.
- All but one country in the index posted positive returns for the year. Romania, Hungary and Slovenia were among countries posting strong returns. Israel was the lone negative performer.
- Intermediate-dated bonds contributed the most to performance. In terms of quality, lower-rated bonds performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
