Vanguard Global Credit Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide a moderate and sustainable level of current income by investing in a diversified portfolio of global credit fixed income bonds.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index Hedged, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high led central banks, including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, to continue raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than some of those in 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- Yields were volatile during the period, but the yield of the bellwether 10-year US Treasury note closed the year at 3.88%, which was almost exactly where it started. Very short-term yields generally ended higher.
- For the 12 months ended 31 December 2023, the fund outpaced its benchmark, which returned 8.68%.
- Emerging markets country positioning and issuer selection added to relative performance. So did selection in European investment-grade corporates – notably within industrial issuers.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Short-Term Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Ex US MBS 1–5 Year Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised bonds, excluding US mortgage-backed securities, with maturities between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks – including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England – raising interest rates in the first part of 2023 but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 5.95% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Canada did so as well. Other index heavyweights including Italy, South Korea, Spain and France were among the countries that outperformed the index.
- By sector, corporate bonds fared better than other parts of the market including government bonds and non-corporate bonds.
- By credit quality, bonds at the bottom of the investment-grade ladder did better than their higher-rated counterparts.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Short-Term Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Corporate 1–5 Year Float Adjusted Index, a market-weighted index of global corporate fixed income investments with maturities of between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of 2023 but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 7.21% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, returned less than the index as a whole, as did China and Canada. A number of European countries outperformed, including Switzerland, Spain and Germany.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions returned more than those of industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, securities on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder returned more than their higher-rated counterparts.

All returns cited in this commentary are based in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
