Vanguard Japan Government Bond Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Japan Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of Japanese yen-denominated treasury and Japan government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high led central banks, including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England, to continue raising interest rates in the first part of the year, but through less aggressive hikes than some of those in 2022. The Bank of Japan adjusted its yield-curve control framework but maintained its negative interest rate policy through 2023.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- In this environment, Japanese government bonds ended the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 0.53% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Results were positive overall for maturities up to 20 years, with the highest overall returns in the 5-to-10-year range. Issues with maturities of 20 years or more were negative overall. Treasuries, the largest sector, held nearly even with the benchmark, while local government bonds and agency bonds outpaced it.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Japanese yen.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard SRI Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated investment-grade fixed income securities excluding euro zone treasury and euro zone government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 7.38% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Each sector in the index posted positive returns. Corporates performed the best, with all represented sub-sectors – financial institutions, industrials and utilities – posting healthy gains. Within non-corporates, sovereigns performed particularly well.
- All but one country in the index posted positive returns for the year. Particularly strong performance came from nations including Romania, Hungary and Slovenia. Israel was the lone negative performer.
- Intermediate-dated bonds contributed the most to performance. In terms of quality, lower-rated bonds performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in Euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.K. Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg U.K. Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of pound sterling-denominated UK treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 3.43% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Within the index, the longest maturities posted the highest gains in the final months, but it was not enough to offset the declines earlier in the year. These bonds had a modest decline for the full period, while bonds in the mid-maturity range posted the highest returns.
- By sector, it was a similar story, with local government debt posting stellar double-digit gains in the final months but ending with a slightly negative return for the full period.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in British pounds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.K. Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg GBP Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of pound sterling-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding government and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 8.66% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Within the index, bonds with lower credit ratings posted higher returns than those with higher ratings. Bonds with the longest maturity posted the highest gains in the final months, but those in the mid-range had the highest returns for the full period. By sector, corporate bonds had the highest returns, followed closely by securitised debt.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in British pounds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.K. Short-Term Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg GBP Non-Government 1–5 Year 200MM Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of pound sterling-denominated, investment-grade bonds, excluding government bonds, with maturities between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England raising interest rates in the first part of the year but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of major central banks cutting rates in 2024.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 6.92% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- Within the index, bonds with lower credit ratings posted higher returns than those with higher ratings. By sector, corporate bonds had the highest returns, followed by securitised debt.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in British pounds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg U.S. Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of US dollar-denominated US Treasury and US government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks – including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England – raising interest rates in the first part of 2023 but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of the Fed cutting rates in 2024.
- Bonds worldwide, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index, returned 5.72% unhedged in US dollars for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- The US Treasury yield curve inverted further over the year, with a sharp increase at the shortest end of the maturity spectrum. Broadly, longer-duration bonds outpaced shorter-term issues, and bonds with lower credit ratings did better than higher-rated debt.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 4.09%.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. Investment Grade Credit Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate USD Credit Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of US dollar-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding US Treasury, US government-related and securitised securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For much of the period, concerns about inflation and whether policymakers' efforts to rein it in might spur a global recession were top of mind for many investors.
- Early on, energy prices continued to cool amid an outlook for slower economic growth, but price increases then began to broaden to other categories, notably the services sector, which felt the effects of tight labour markets.
- The prospect of inflation remaining stubbornly high kept central banks – including the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England – raising interest rates in the first part of 2023 but through less aggressive hikes than in parts of 2022.
- Although financial markets slumped in autumn over concerns that interest rates might remain high for an extended period, they rallied sharply towards year-end as falling inflation and softening economic growth raised the odds of the Fed cutting rates in 2024.
- Bonds worldwide, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index, returned 5.72% unhedged in US dollars for the 12 months ended 31 December 2023.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 7.90% for the period.
- Broadly, longer-duration bonds outpaced shorter-term issues, and bonds with lower credit ratings did better than higher-rated debt. Within the index, corporate bonds outpaced all other sectors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
